It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the 10th edition of the International Conference on Experimental Vibration Analysis for Civil Engineering Structures.

EVACES 2023 will be held at the Leonardo Campus of Politecnico di Milano in Milan (Italy) on August 30 – September 1, 2023.

The conference will be a forum where engineers, scientists, researchers, and practitioners will have the opportunity to disseminate and discuss the latest research, developments and applications in all major aspects of vibration-based monitoring and testing of civil engineering structures.

Existing and emerging challenges related to instrumentation, sources of excitation, data analysis, system identification, damage identification, condition assessment, in-situ and laboratory experiments, codes and standards will be the key, but nonexclusive, topics of the conference.

LOCATION

The conference will be held at the oldest of PoliMI campuses, the Milano Leonardo which is very close to the town center, 30 minutes walk or 10 minutes with the metro.

The campus was recently redesigned by Renzo Piano and offers new spaces modeled on students' needs, and revolving around green spaces and accessible terraces integrated with the historic Gio Ponti's buildings.

Politecnico di Milano (PoliMI) was founded in 1863 as a science and technology institute. It ranks first among Italian Universities and among the first twenty universities in the world in its three study and research areas: engineering, architecture, and design.
